FPIC: 35th ANNUAL CONFERENCE

September 21 - 24, 2010

This conference presents state of the art infection prevention practice and disease control information.

Conference Objectives

- Describe the infection prevention principles applicable in all settings.
- To describe how the NPSGs tie into the infection prevention & control program.
- Explain the impact of a small group of people on the prevention of infections in Florida.
- Describe at least 3 NYS HAI prevention collaboratives, implementation strategies, keys to success and outcomes.
- Compare 2 new methods for developing teams for improving patient safety in any setting.
- To identify high risk equipment, devices, instruments and infection prevention strategies.
- Describe one state's approach to the evaluation and follow-up of potentially exposed persons.
- To describe how the "Compendium" can assist daily infection prevention efforts.
- Describe contagious skin conditions, prevention strategies and most frequently diagnosed conditions.
- Apply "evolving" infection prevention recommendations in an outbreak situation in different settings (e.g. H1N1).
- Explain the basic infection prevention principles to assess, plan, gain compliance, and remedy environmental issues in any setting.
- List risk factors for SSI, evaluate newer technologies in preventing SSIs and identify strategies to improve identification of SSI's.
- Identify critical components of criteria for Healthcare Associated Infections (HAI).
- List factors to consider when selecting disinfectants.
- Explain FDOH's role in Haitian Disaster Relief and the disaster's impact on the State's Health Care System.
- Describe how NHSN results/trends and HHS reduction goals will impact NHSN in the future.
- Explain at least 2 new regulatory issues to impact the practice of Infection Prevention.
- Describe the impact of the FHA/ARC CUSP Project on prevention of bloodstream-related infections.
